Membership Criteria and Limitations

Membership in NALP is institutionally based. Institutional members must be legal employers, ABA accredited law schools, or non-U.S. based law schools whose admission to membership is approved by the NALP Board of Directors. Employer members may include bar associations or nonprofit public interest organizations, government agencies, or any other employer whose active engagement in the recruitment of lawyers and law students is primarily for purposes of employment within its individual organization. Each institutional membership includes one (1) individual membership – referred to as the Primary (voting) member. Additional individuals at an institutional member may join as Associate Members for an additional fee. By applying for membership, you provide NALP with permission to email you about NALP products, events, research, industry news, and association updates. To inquire about opting out of specific emails please contact the NALP office.

NALP Member Benefits

Whether you're a professional seeking educational programs and resources to help advance your career, a law firm or public service organization looking for the latest industry research to assist in the legal employment process, or a law school searching for best practices for career services offices, NALP membership offers a collaborative and supportive community with numerous benefits to empower you to act with authority, credibility, and confidence.

Industry Research

NALP's expert team has been providing sound, credible data for nearly fifty years, and the entire industry relies on NALP as the number one resource for this information. NALP research focuses on law school graduate employment outcomes and salaries, recruiting activity, diversity in the legal profession, member salaries, associate salaries, and public interest salaries.

Member Professional Development and Education

The legal employment market is changing at a very rapid rate. Members rely on NALP's events to stay on top of what those changes mean for them and their organizations.

The Annual Education Conference is the premier event bringing together law school and legal employer members, along with other industry leaders and consultants for four days of educational programs.

The Professional Development Institute is for those involved in any aspect of lawyer and law student training and professional development.

The Entry Level Recruiting Summit is a high-level, members-only recruiting conference which includes presentation of exclusive survey data gathered from attendees and nationally.

The Lateral Recruiting Summit is a high-level, members-only recruiting conference which focuses on those who do lateral and partner recruiting and onboarding.

The Newer Professionals' Forum focuses on the needs of newer legal recruitment, professional development, diversity and inclusion, public interest, and career services professionals.

The Canadian Winter Meeting brings together Canadian legal employers and law schools to discuss current issues in recruiting, retention, and diversity.

NALP's free member webinars provide virtual learning opportunities that fit into your busy schedule.

Publications

NALP also offers an online bookstore that includes a variety of pamphlets and books on many topics related to legal career development.

Members receive a bimonthly newsletter, NALPnow!, with timely information about relevant resources, programs, events, and activities.

Stay informed of the latest industry news with the Industry News Digest, a weekly compilation of news articles relevant to legal career professionals and their organizations.

The NALP Bulletin+ delivers essential information and insight to empower members to master challenges, create new ideas, and keep abreast of new developments in the legal employment market.

Community

What members appreciate most is the ability to have constructive, collegial conversations about trends and best practices and to share resources. Having relationships with other members who work in similar roles enables them to do their jobs more effectively and add value to their organizations.

Use NALPconnect to engage with other members in your private online members-only professional community.

The Shared Resource Pool is a collection of models and samples used by real law school professionals designed to generate ideas and save you time.

NALP's collection of peer generated conference handouts and presentations provide members with access to tools, resources, and best practices.

Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteering in NALP gives you the opportunity to connect with peers who have similar roles in different settings while advancing the goals of the organization. Whether it's serving as a volunteer leader, sharing your best practices as a speaker at an educational event, or writing for one of NALP's publications, there are many ways you can contribute to the NALP community.
